MISS MYRTLE NELSON

BA Degree Concordia College, Moorhead, Minnesota

Graduate Work: University of Minnesota, University of Montana, University of Colorado.

Teaching experience: Minnesota, North Dakota. In Montana has taught at Stevensville and Red Lodge.

Teaching experience in Great Falls: Joined the Great Falls school system in 1944. Taught for 2 years at Paris-Gibson before transferring to Great Falls high. Has been on the staff since that time.

Activities: She has been a member of the Montana State English Curriculum Committee for 5 years. She has served as president of the local Delta Kappa Gamma chapter, and at the present time is the chairman of the Community Service Committee of the chapter. She also supports and assists with church activities.

In professional educational organizations, she has served as treasurer of the Great Falls Teachers' Association, has been a delegate to the state MEA, and has served as a delegate to the National Educational Association convention.

Her activities in the high school have included sponsorship of the Booster Club, and the sponsorship of the senior class.

In 1960 the D. C. Heath publishing company had her evaluate a set of English textbooks.

Hobbies: Likes to read, and also likes to collect records.

Great Falls High School
Great Falls, Montana

Dear Miss Nelson:

With the hope that this dedication will further enrich your life as you have enriched the lives of many Great Falls High School students, we dedicate this 1961 ROUNDUP to you.

We make this dedication because we believe our school is better because you are here. We believe that your devotion to the profession of teaching inspires present teachers as well as future teachers. We know that students who follow us here at Great Falls High School will continue to find in your classes those qualities of professional teaching that have made this dedication possible.

Sincerely yours,

The Staff

Special Honors Go to Class Officers

This year's Senior Class president is Terry Wardinsky, driver. Terry, second string quarterback on the football team, was Roundup Day King candidate for his class and was a delegate to Boys' State. Bob McIntyre, center front, vice-president, is a stalwart of the Bison wrestling team. He serves as president of the Lettermen's Club and was a delegate to Boys' State. Secretary of the class is Terry McGovern. Terry plays in the dance band and many music groups. He was chosen to represent the Montana Music Teachers in Philadelphia. Class sponsors Miss Mikell Peck and Mr. Sid Stende sit in back.

Brett Asselstine was elected president of the Junior Class. Brett was Roundup Day king and on the junior varsity basketball team. He has held other class offices.

Vice president, Jill Doty, front seat, was elected DeMolay Sweetheart. She is a band officer and Roundup Day queen. Jill has also held other class offices.

Mary Sullivan, secretary, is one of Great Falls High's cheerleaders. Mary is the faculty editor of the Roundup and a member of G.A.A. She has also held other class offices.

Secretary of the Sophomore class is Molly McCollum, left. Molly is a member of the Booster Club and participates in G.A.A.

A member of the junior varsity football and basketball, Jim Tuss takes over if the sophomore president is absent. Jim is very interested in all athletics and plays on a Legion baseball team.

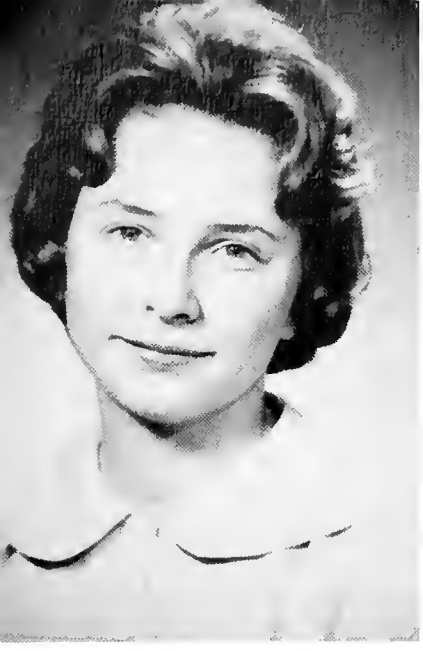
Special Honors Go to Exchange Students



While in Sweden Pat has lived with two Swedish families and has gone to two Swedish schools. Among her achievements she can count mastery of the Swedish tongue and a high standing in her new class.

Patricia Cramer of GFHS is attending school in Sweden in conjunction with the American Field Service exchange student program. An honor student during her three years at GFHS, Pat has been active in the music department, especially the band. Her outside activities include Methodist Youth Fellowship and Rainbow Girls.

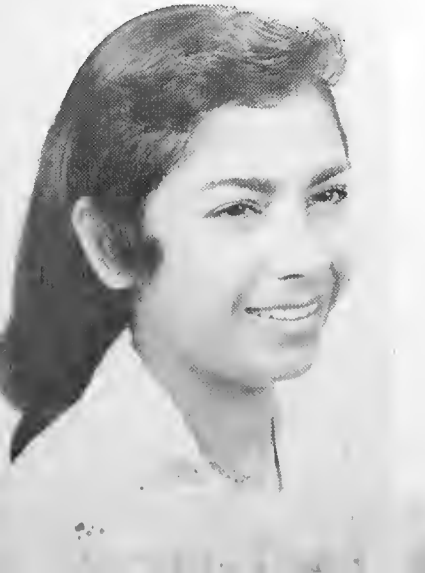
Yasmin is making her home during her year in the United States with Mr. and Mrs. Thaine Wulf and their daughters Nancy and Julie. Nancy, who is a senior at GFHS, is acting as Yasmin's exchange sister.



Yasmin Elahi, American Field Service exchange student from Pakistan, poses in her native dress. Her outfit consists of a shalwar, kamees, and dupatta. The Shalwar is similar to a pair of wide-legged pantaloons, her kamees closely resembles a cotton sheath dress, and her dupatta is like a scarf and is as much a part of the ensemble as a belt would be for a dress of western style. Yasmin, a senior at GFHS, would have entered her third year of college in Karachi. Here, her course of study has stressed subjects concerning the United States. She is an honorary member of Booster Club, Agora Club and Ski Club.

District Officers Establish School Policies

Policies under which School District No. 1 operate are determined by state laws, interpreted locally by a board of seven trustees. The superintendent is charged with administration of all decisions made.

Each Is a Key to Success in Education

In addition to the officers pictured, the district maintains offices for an assistant to the superintendent, Ted Barkhurst; a curriculum advisor, John Kranick; a dietician who is in charge of all school lunch programs; a district librarian; and a number of other employees who advise or assist in carrying out district policies.

Principal WILLIAM SWARTHOUT, M. E.

Dean of Girls CATHERINE RATHMAN, M. A.

The worth of a High School, its esteem and respect, its success or failure depends to a great extent on its administrative staff. The Administrators on these pages have been on the staff for many years. Their devotion to the school is evidenced in that all have at one time or another refused positions at other schools, preferring instead the High School of the outstanding system in the state.

Miss Rathman confers with Joyce Davidson in her office.

Girls' Counselor MRS. NATALIE LEWIS, B. S.

Hours Are Long and Duties Vary for All Who Are Administrators

LOWELL HULTS, B. A., M. A., Dean of Boys

Mr. Hults, Dean of Boys, is head of the boys counseling program. His duties are many and varied. They include advising the senior boys about college, administering college preparation tests, and discussing with the boys any other problems they may have.

H. F. DAHMER, B. S., M. E., Assistant to Principal

For the first time this year Mr. Dahmer occupies the position of assistant to the principal. Whenever Mr. Swarthout is out of town or ill Mr. Dahmer takes over the reins of GFHS. He is also athletic director and by his own choice teaches two history classes.

Mr. Schlameus specializes in vocational counseling. This year he has arranged weekly meetings at which representatives speak to boys who are interested in these fields.

Boys Counselor FLOYD SCHLAMEUS, B S., M. E.

All the counselors have a part in administering the Iowa tests to juniors. The results of these tests determine mental maturity and are helpful in planning a student's future course of action.

Emphasis on American Democratic Thought Is Aimed at Success After Graduation from GFHS

The pictures here displayed tell only a part of the success story represented in every GFHS senior. The following pages all contain a part of the key to success that GFHS at one time or another places in the hand of every student who enters.

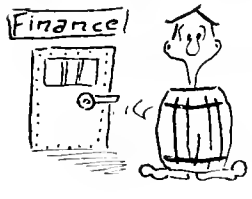
Tom Carabas is shown with Mr. Swarthout as he prepares to announce the weekly bulletin over the public address system. Selected by Mr. Hunt, the speech and debate coach, Tom has been making the announcements for almost two years.

The efficient office girls are often kept busy with various jobs, which include delivering messages, picking up admit slips and typing any necessary materials. These girls receive a half credit for their work.

All Monies Received or Spent at GFHS Are Handled by the Finance Office

In this picture Sheryl Wright, the present student body treasurer, receives payment of a fine from Phyllis Skeel. At right Lois Conger, who is training for next year's work in the finance office, receives money from Mr. Johnson.



Mr. Bofto, who is head of the GFHS financial department, oversees the finance office. This office channels the passage of money through GFHS.

The finance office is the center of our school economy. Here are kept the school financial records and money. Students may pay for lost text books or purchase student tickets for many out of school functions in the finance office.

School Health Is Supervised by Professionally Trained Attendents

A student referred from original eye check in advisory is pictured during further examination by Mrs. Symes.

Mrs. Symes executes the duties of the school nurse by bandaging the finger of an injured student. Mrs. Symes is also sponsor of the Future Nurses' Club.

MRS. FERN SYMES, R. N.
School Nurse

Mrs. Symes' busy schedule as school nurse and affiliate of the Public Health Department allows her only two sessions per week at the high school. While here she handles referral cases, keeps records up to date and advises students about their health problems. She addresses the faculty yearly at its organizational meeting. In addition, Mrs. Symes finds time to sponsor the program of the Future Nurses' Club.

The School Hot Lunch Program Serves Over Three Fourths of the Enrollment

Students race to the lunch room the minute the bell rings.

For students and teachers alike it's chow time from 11:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The school lunch program throughout the Great Falls school system is a fine one. The system itself employes a dietian, as does each school. The meals are well planned, efficiently served, nutritious and economical. The low cost of these meals is made possible by a government subsidy.

Over these counters pass at least 1200 plates of food a day.

Here cooks Buddy Ferrin, Ruby Korpi, Dorothy Jackson, and Ione Geise pose with the cafeteria's new kettles. These same cooks prepare the delicious homemade bread and rolls which GFHS students enjoy, product of government surplus flour which the school program receives.

Janitorial Crews Perform Many Essential But Thankless Chores

Cleaning the trophy case is one of the many tasks taken care of by the custodians.

This is just another of the odd jobs requiring the attention of the maintenance crew.

Trampoline, Tumbling Add Variety to the Regular Program of Team Sports

Team basketball

Team trampolining

Team mat exercises

Team sports are a part of every school's curriculum. They teach students to work together, and they develop coordinated effort. Team sports have always been emphasized in all schools, and the U. S. armed forces say that team sports are a vital and necessary part of any educational program.

Team tumbling

KAREN OLSON, BS
Health, Phys. Ed., Biology

Team sports or gym classes in a variety of subject matter do not always receive support from students or a community. Often some gym classes are looked upon as frills on education. Students sometimes complain that the time taken up in the gym could be used to other study advantage. Once the need for the program is understood, however, the opposition weakens.

Team sports and gym classes at GFHS are the key to physical fitness in the critical teen years. Such classes also lay the base for physical well being in the years immediately following graduation. Many outstanding athletes have credited team sports and high school gym classes with awakening in them interest in a sport which has led to their individual success in it.

Mathematics Teaches Mental Discipline,

Pure Logic and its Application

"Mathematics," said H. G. Wells in his book "Mankind in the Making," "is a sort of supplement to language. It affords a means of thought about form and quantity and a means of expression, more exact, compact, and ready than ordinary language. The great body of physical science, a great deal of essential facts of financial science, and endless social and political problems are only accessible and only thinkable to those who have a sound training in mathematical analysis."

ROBERT WILLET, BS, MA

Mr. Chapman, left, demonstrates some problems of geometry to a class. The geometry student is faced constantly with the question, "What is the proof?"

Business math builds a basic foundation for the fundamentals of the business world.

From Basic Math Practices Often

Come the Ideas for Great Math Philosophies

Students in Mr. Scovil's class learn the same basic geometry problems that faced the great mathematician Pythagoras some 500 years before the birth of Christ.

The students, left, can look to the display board and see the Ann Huliston award list. This award, in honor of a great GFHS math teacher, goes to an outstanding math senior yearly.

When one is faced with a problem, he may find that mathematics can help in solving it. But first, one must master the basic language of this complex science. What is a subtrahend? How does a trigtractor work? Are linear equation graphs understandable, or are they as complex and foreign as circle graphs? What is an addend? A denominator? A proper or improper fraction? What relationship does mathematics have to perspective? To shaded drawings? Only by mastering the language of math, making assumptions, and drawing logical conclusions can the math major truly say he is applying inductive and deductive reasoning—the key to mastery of mathematics in the past, and the key to mathematics today.

The study of a foreign language is a unique educational experience. It is a means by which the student can participate in the inner life of another people and share its culture. Through the study of a foreign language, the student also comes to learn his own language much better. The poet and philosopher Goethe said, "He who knows no other language, does not know his own."

Dr. Oksenholt uses the tape recorder to help his German pupils perfect their pronunciation.

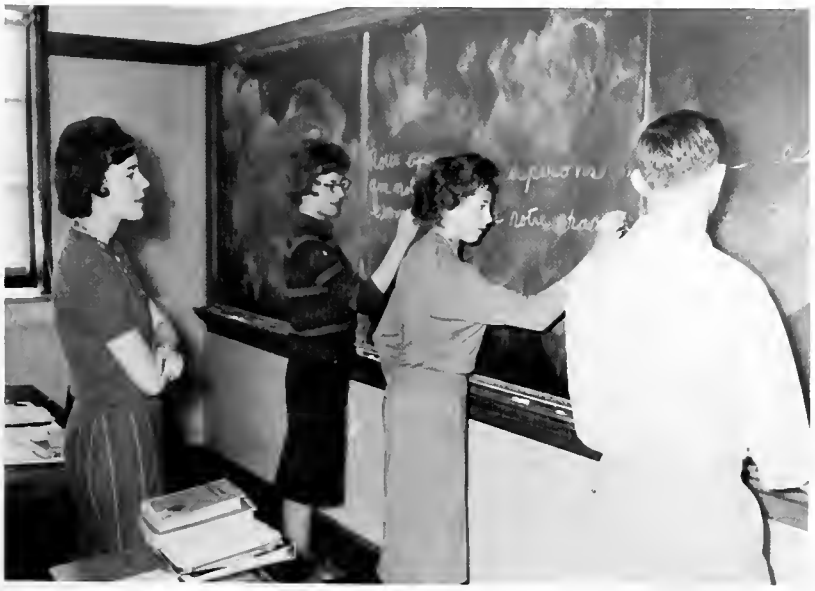
Students Use Recorders or Blackboards to Perfect Language Techniques

German questions are often answered by the various students on the blackboard.

VICTOIRE TOOF, BA, MA
French

The foreign language department of GFHS offers courses in Latin, French, Spanish, and German. The oral-aural approach is used in French, Spanish and German with emphasis on the student speaking and listening to his chosen language as much as possible. In order to improve their pronunciation students listen to tapes of experts using the language.

The French grammer book is printed completely in French. The Latin test is printed in English as are the German and Spanish tests until suitable replacements written in these languages can be found.



Miss Toof watches as her second year French students write their exercises on the board.

Secretarial Courses Are Always Popular

Many additional traits of a good secretary other than shorthand and typing, are stressed by Mrs. Morris, office practice, typing, and shorthand teacher. The importance of promptness, a pleasing smile, and good posture is almost as pertinent as learning the usage of office machines, mimeographing, and filing.

The girls taking office practice also take shorthand and typing, which means these girls spend at least three hours a day with Mrs. Morris.

One half a credit is received for office practice.

Many GFHS Graduates Get Jobs in Business Immediately Upon Graduation

Typing may be considered the key to success to an efficient secretary or businessman.

Ever Changing World Conditions

Require Careful History Study

Many students know Mr. Lundquist as an advisor and a friend. He teaches inspiring world history classes, works closely with the exchange student program, and accompanies the student speakers to their engagements.

BEN LUNDQUIST, BS, MA

ELSIE BROWNING, BA

Mrs. Browning who formerly taught civics now teaches political science in conjuction with the expansion program of the history department. Other new courses being offered this year are economics in place of psychology and sociology in place of American Institutions and Problems. Next year Russian history and Northwest history will join the curriculum.

Broadening of History Base Through Added Classes Emphasizes Continuing Importance

Mr. Hovland accompanied his first semester psychology classes on their traditional field trip to Boulder and Warm Springs. His efforts with the accelerated U. U. S. History students Harold Gohrick, Bonnie Johnson, Diane Jensen, Lucille Wallet, Jerry Nichols, Joe Peterson, Bruce Nelson, Karen Morton, Priscilla Lyon, Bill Kopetski, Ron Sowers, Gail Cockrill, Gene Hammatt, Mary Pohlman, Scott Sherlock, Dick Olson, and Linda Asselstine seem intent on Miss Peck's explanation of a current affairs map.

Outside reading, book reports, research papers, all a part of the supplementary requirements of the various history classes, are carried out in the library. Individual social studies class work, too, is often supplemented by bulletin board materials from that source.

History Teaches, Too, That We Live in a Constantly Changing World

Special 2-year project of Mr. Oksenholt's world history classes has been projection and painting of an oversized map on their room's north wall.

U. S. history holds no terrors for these upper level students, nor, apparently, does their teacher. Map work, reports—the fast pace makes varied activity possible.

The two teachers pictured on this page have many duties in addition to teaching history. Mr. Dahmer, above left, is assistant to the principal, and also is charged with administration of athletics. He also counsels students.

Mr. Dodds, above right, coaches basketball in addition to teaching history. The coach joined the GFHS staff this year, coming to the school from Sidney, Montana, where he had an enviable record in the sport.

In addition to using standard texts, history students are required to read current news magazines, and are required to give oral reports. Books that fit into a historical period are encouraged for extra reading by students, and those who do such additional work voluntarily receive extra credit. Many students have raised low grades through additional work, and in addition to the grade have gained valuable information about the background of the world in which they live.

'The Truth Will Make You Free'

WILLIAM SPAHR, BS
Journalism

Journalism teaches students to seek constantly the facts and the truth regarding any happening. Students learn the news reporting techniques of newspapers, radio, and television. In addition, they are taught advertising techniques, propaganda techniques, and literary techniques. Students publish a weekly paper, and assist with the yearbook. This year their teacher was absent for several months due to the Montana legislative session which he attends as a Representative from Cascade County.

Under the guidance of Miss Mikell Peck and Nancy Wulf, Editor, the various section editors and their staffs work diligently to meet the deadline of the Roundup.

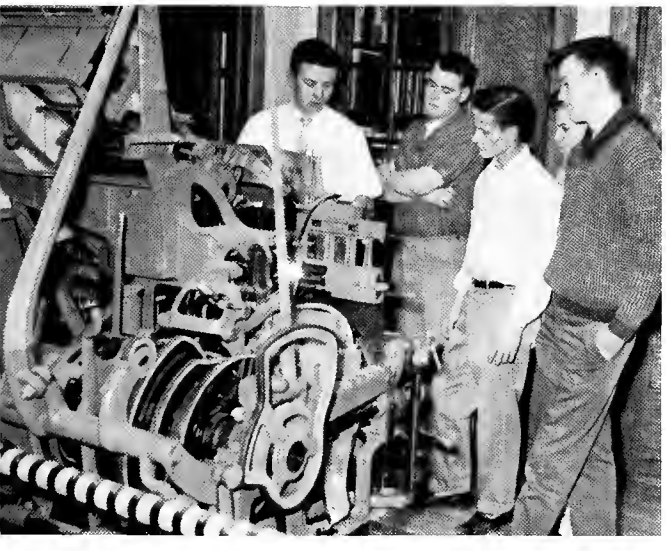
Mr. Spiniti's print shop prepares boys who wish to further their career in the field of printing.

The first semester classes learn the basic fundamentals of printing and make stationery for their own use. The advanced class prints items such as dance programs, tickets, and membership cards.



Mr. Spinti demonstrates the proper usage of the linotype machine, which automatically sets type for the press.

Electrical shop classes of Mr. Parsons learn to build radio receivers, learn electronic gear repair, and learn Morse code practices. Students use their high frequency amplifiers to converse with students and friends in other parts of the United States and the world. Almost any day of the school year, students enter the electronic classes with zest, knowing that the time they spend adds to the basic knowledge of the complex field of electronics.

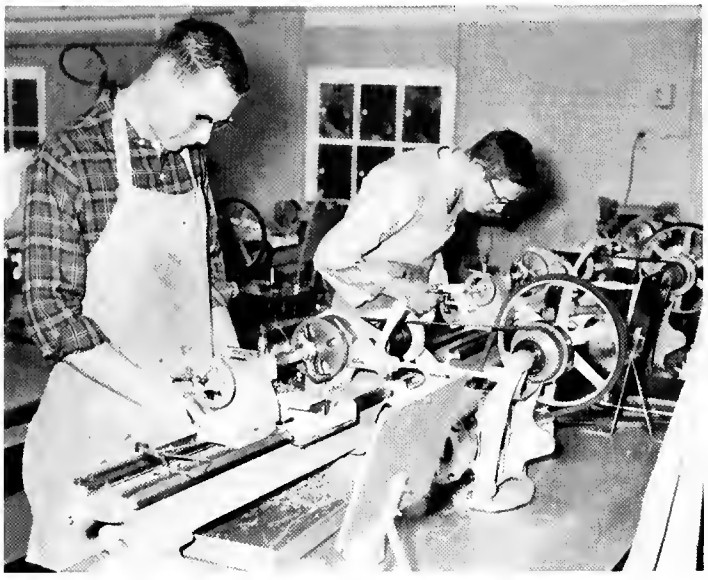
Mr. Savage, mechanical drawing instructor, has been on the staff of GFHS over 40 years.

Students in mechanical drawing class apply the principles taught to them earlier by their instructor, Mr. John Savage.

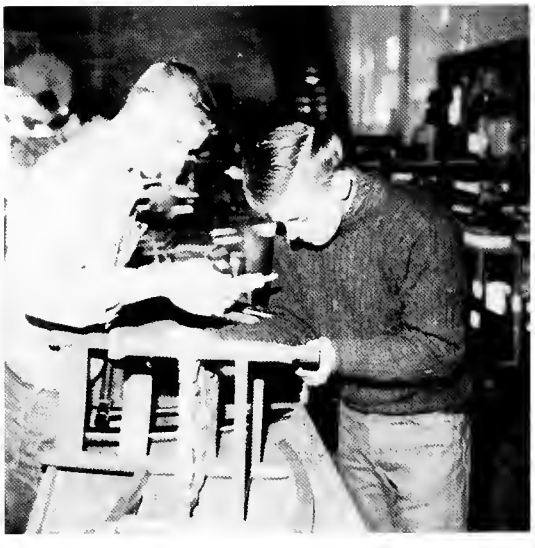
Metal Craftsmanship and Printing

Play Important Parts in Training

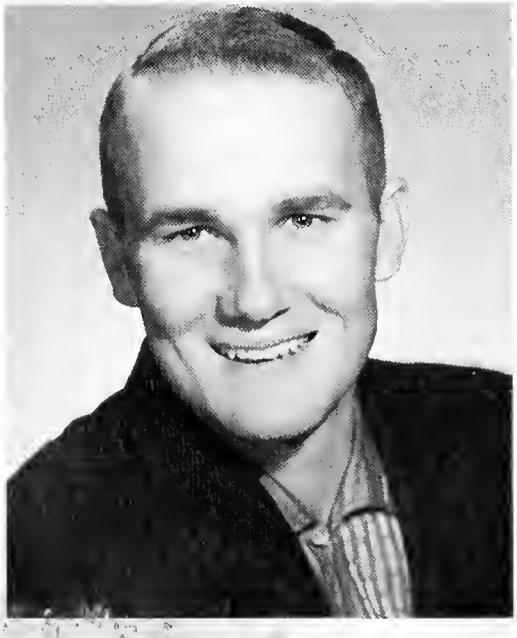


Jerry Johnson and Larry Schilling make metal tools on the metals lathes.

The pre-Christmas weeks were busy ones for the boys and girls in wood shop and homemaking. Their special project, engineered by Mr. Schlameus, was the creation and repair of toys for orphans of the city. In the picture below two students put the finishing touches on a rocking chair for a child.



Industrial arts teacher, Mr. Engel, spends many nights at school instructing auto mechanics in the adult education program. He was the organizing spirit of last year's riotous faculty basketball game and served as sponsor of the 1960 Roundup day assembly. This year he represents a portion of the faculty at the local professional organization.



The cutting of a taper is demonstrated to Ron Hilbig, Ron Miner, and other students of Mr. Engel in machine shop.

Tom Kynett, Gene Domogalla, Bill Earl, and David Williams are shown working the hand presses.

English Study Is Emphasized in Every GFHS Year

In keeping with modern thinking the English faculty was expanded this year in order to achieve a lighter teaching load for each and to enable more writing to be assigned and read. Students took different views of this additional essay work but mostly realized that they were being better prepared for college.

Average teaching load this year in English is four classes of 25 students each. Formerly, the class load was five classes, of 30 students. Under the new schedule, teachers have more time to work with students in this critical area of language.

The Key to Oral Success

Is Mastery of One's Language

Sophomore classes in English learn grammer techniques, read several novels, and learn the basic elements of theme writing. Junior English students have an opportunity to put their earlier training to use by writing short stories and longer themes, and in addition must read at least six books every semester and give written or oral reports on them. At least half of the junior year is spent in studying grammar, and the other half is spent in writing and literature of the American scene.

Senior English students study English literature, and perfect their grammatical techniques in order to meet college entrance requirements. GFHS curriculum contains provisions for senior English study that permits students going on to college to take classes in English according to their future need.

SARA STEUBS, BA

It's quiz time in English class as Mrs. Morse reads the directions for beginning work.

Students of Mr. Lund's English class work on themes in class while the instructor notes their progress.

Students of Miss Cosgriff's accelerated English class listen to a student report on a novel being studied by the class.

The Study of English Forms the Support for All High School Work

MYRTLE NELSON, BA
English

The English language is the key to American living. A knowledge of this important tool unlocks many doors in our civilization which would otherwise remain unopened, but by the same token a lack of knowledge closes many doors. We have an exceptional English department at GFHS employing sixteen teachers. There is an accelerated or honors class on each of the three levels of English. Homogeneous grouping is further carried out by the division of senior English into college preparatory and non-college preparatory classes.

Units of grammar and literature are covered each year. The sophomore classes have a unit entitled "Meet the World" which acquaints them with the cultures of foreign countries. American literature is emphasized in the junior course of study. The senior year students are introduced to English literature and authors. There is also a unit in senior English which requires students to do research on various colleges and helps prepare them for college life.

The library often proves to be a necessary asset to Miss Nelson's senior English classes.

STANLEY MORSE, BA, ME

Contemporary and Classic Are Studied by All English Students

Miss Beiers, like a number of other new teachers to the school found it necessary to mobilize for each class period, making use of rooms vacated by other teachers during a free period or while they attended to other duties. She assisted with management of the new auditorium study-hall, made necessary by influx of student population which had to be accomodated in classrooms cut from former study facilities.

MARLYS BEIERS, BA
English

Seniors settle themselves for the next 55 minute class as Mr. Morse prepares to "lecture" them.

One of the senior class sponsors this year, Mr. Stende plays a role he has filled numerous times in the past. His experience is valuable as a source of direction to planning committees for class assembly, Senior Ball, and commencement.

With the increased emphasis on composition in all 3 years, students write and, inevitably, rewrite greater numbers of themes.

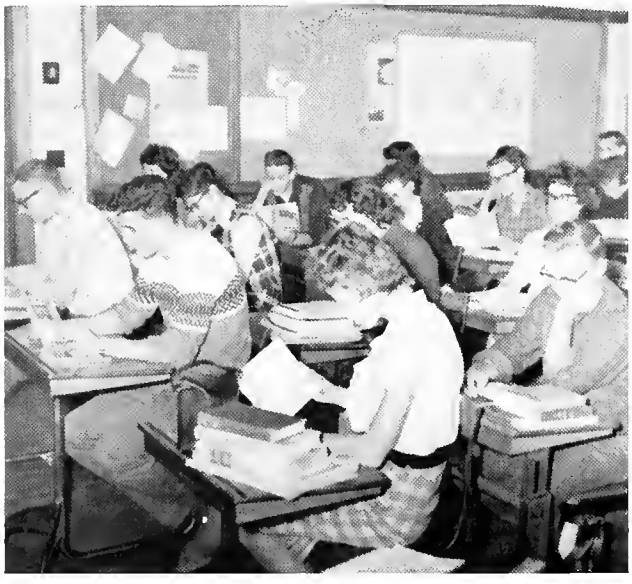
Themes, Book Reports, and Daily Literature Assignments Mark All English Classes

One class supplement used by students in English for living and English for reading groups is provided in individual copies of Reader's Digest. Below non-college prep seniors in Mrs. Phelan's class enjoy some moments of silent reading in this periodical.



MARY JANE PACE, BS
English

Mrs. Pace instructs several classes of sophomores and juniors in basic language skills, both grammar and American literature.

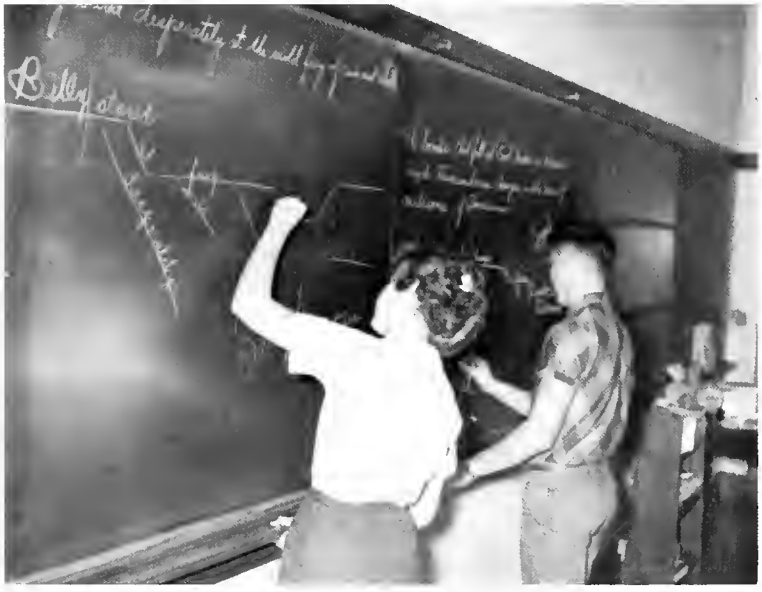
For the Writer, English Offers the Key to Success

Analysis of sentence structure in order to better understand the tools of the language and their most effective organization is of primary concern to English classes at all levels. Diagramming on the board provides a useful means for accomplishing this by making visual that which must be retained.

DENNIS MOLLANDER, BA
English



Grammar is neccessary for success in every English department.

MARJORIE MORSE, BA, BM
English

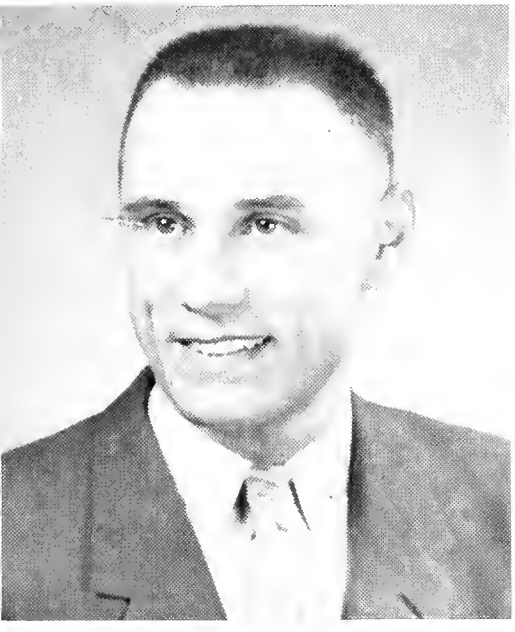
Mrs. Morse instructs sophomores and seniors. In keeping with a serious interest in music, she gives private voice lessons, too.

In the picture at left a group of sophomore students hears the report of a classmate. Miss Cosgriff supervises the typical classroom situation.

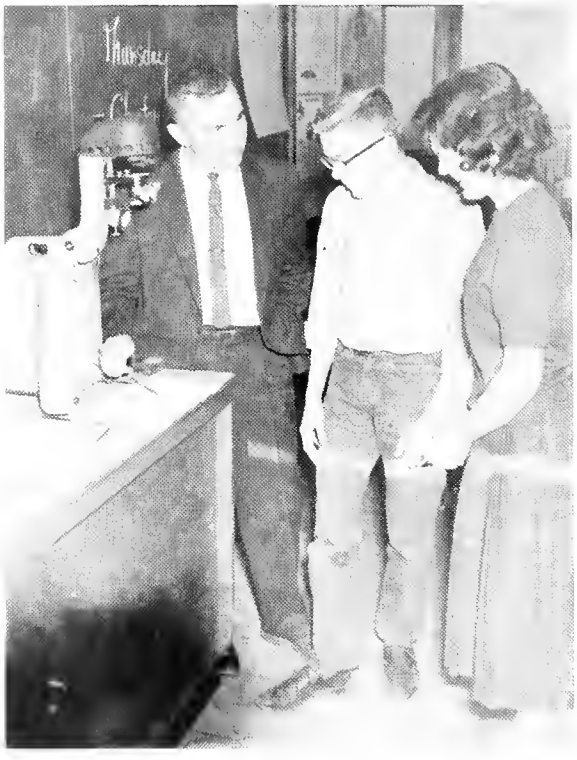
Special reports and talks help to give poise and confidence to the students.

Science Constantly Looks to the Future

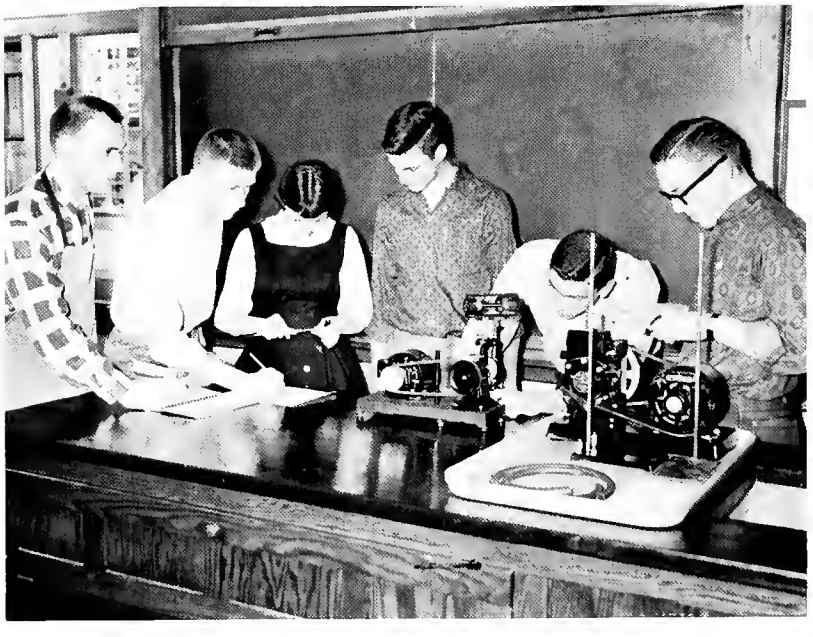
PAUL BUCK, BS, MS
Biology, Adv. Biology



JOHN STEFANOFF, BS, MS, ME
Physics, Adv. Physics



Mr. Johnson is demonstrating the use of prepared slides to his biology students.



Mr. Stefanoff watches as advanced physics students Bill Hughes, Kay Johnson, Tom Wolgamot, Dave Sletta, and Doug Evans conduct an experiment measuring centrifugal force.

Scientific Thought Challenges Each Age

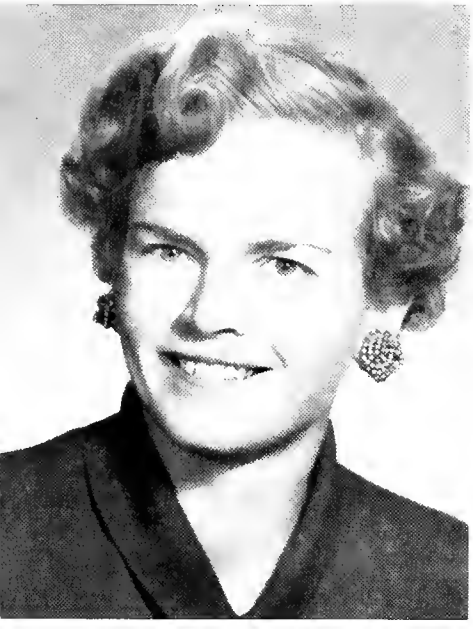
Our science classes contain many curious students eagerly searching for knowledge in this field. Experiments go hand in hand with the teaching technique used in our science department. Equipment used in each science class to demonstrate certain principles of chemistry, physics and biology. Our science department rates very high and many of the students from our school have received awards stemming from their original training in Great Falls High School. Our science courses are a challenge for their students.

Barbara Smith and Bonnie Silta, students in advanced biology, inspect specimens in Mr. Buck's miniature greenhouse.

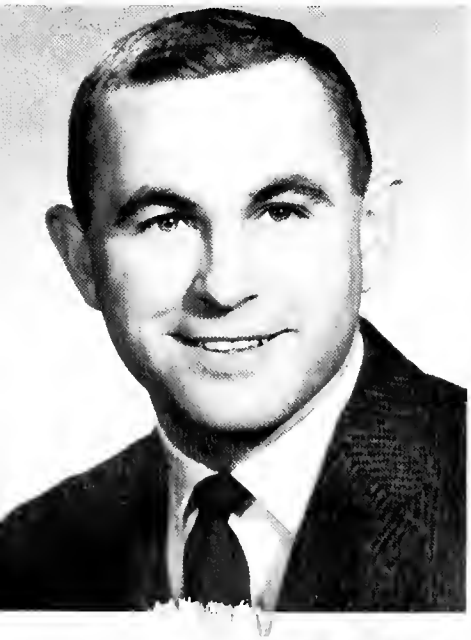
Advanced physics students work with microscope and carbon arc lamp.

Beginning scientist, John Skelton, runs an experiment in radio electronics.

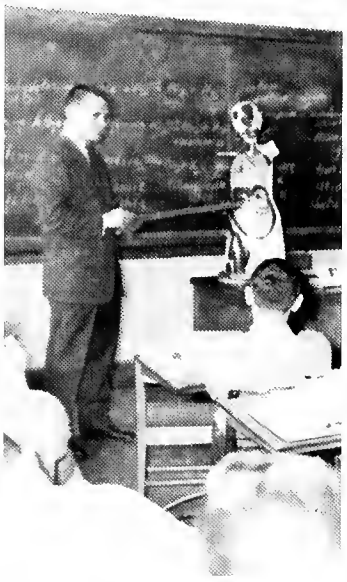
GERTRUDE OLSON, BS, MS
Biology, Health



PEGGY BLYTH, BS
Health, Biology



The microscope is a helpful asset to Mr. Buck's advanced biology classes.



Mr. Carlson discusses the anatomy of the human body with his health class.

Mr. Buck explains a question asked by a student.

Mr. Johnson's biology class shows its power of concentration while absorbed in writing a test.

The Laws of Physics or Chemistry Provide a Constant Challenge to the Inquisitive

Members of Mr. Stefanoff's advanced physics class, Terry McGovern, Kathy Baker, Doug Abraham, Gary Clinard, and Bob Lund make an experiment studying accelerated motion.

Besides teaching physics and advanced physics, Mr. Stefanoff sponsors the National Science Talent Search. To enter the competition the student must carry out a project which is judged on a nation-wide basis. A national exam is then taken, for which scholarships are awarded to the students receiving the highest scores.

Together with Mr. Buck, high school biology instructor, Mr. Stefanoff is also a member of the State Science Curriculum Committee. This group formulates science courses for the state of Montana.

Mr. Buck shows two advanced biology students how to dissect a shark.

Human anatomy charts serve as helpful visual aids in health and biology classes. Here Mrs. Blyth points out the function of the digestive system for her sophomore girls.

The Organization of Matter Is Explored in Chemistry

ANNA KINGSBURY, BS
Chemistry

Don Carberry, Gary Polich, Dick Hurd, and Dan Frazer are intent upon the chemistry experiment which they are conducting. Laboratory work each week supplements the lecture and text materials which the students must master. A large part of the course is college preparatory.

Another group of budding chemists delves deeply into the mysteries of science.

Chemistry students find their experiments a great addition to their course of study. These experiments give them a taste of what it is to actually be a chemist. This practical application gives more meaning to what they have read in their text books. At times the students make mistakes and the experiments don't conclude as expected. The per centage of laboratory equipment accidently broken during these experiments is always high. The chemistry department requires each student to pay a laboratory fee of $1.50 to cover this breakage.

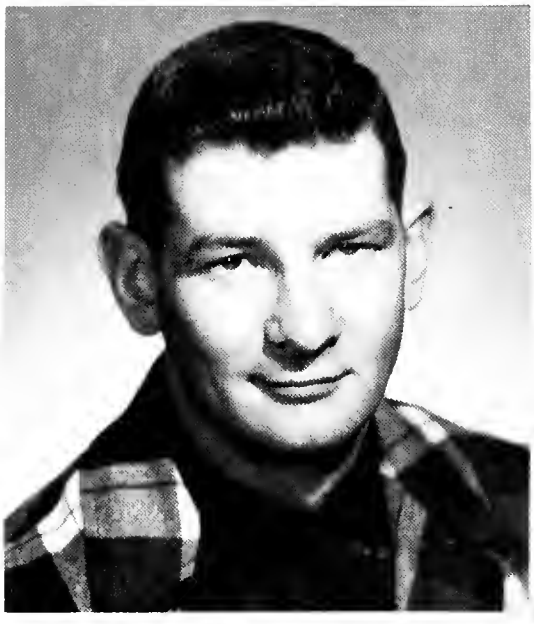
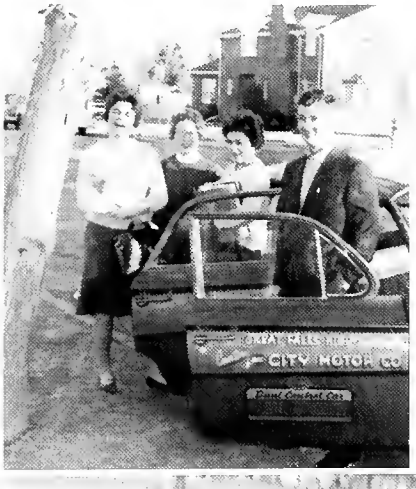
GFHS' Driving Course Is Recognized by Authorities As Being Vital to Safety

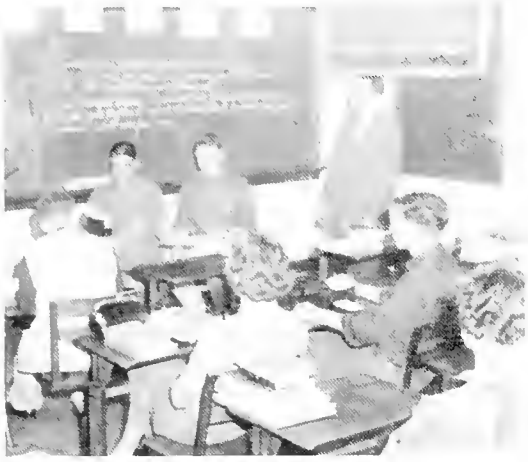


ROBERT BROWN, BS, B. PE
Drivers Training

Besides having an advisory, Mr. Brown devotes all his time to teaching driving. Mr. Brown assists with drivers training in the morning and teaches history during the afternoon. Two 1961 model Fords were donated to the school by the Bison Motors, which have been a great asset to the training. Students receive no credit for the course, but obtain valuable training which will be of great use to the students.

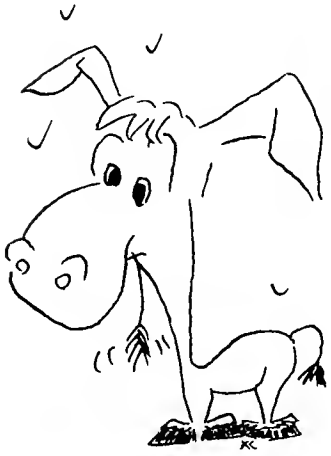


Speech Emphasis Has Earned GFHS Students Statewide Respect at Meets



The arts and techniques of correct speaking are studied extensively in Mr. Hunt's speech class.

IVAN HUNT, BA, ME
English, Speech



The class evaluates the work of Don Torgenrud, winner of the "Voice of Democracy" contest and one of six school representatives to the Gonzaga speech meet.

These students take part in most speech activities in which GFHS participates. In the picture at left Stanlee Wardinsky and Delsea Bruington are pictured with Frank DuBois. At right are Naomi Fineman, Dennis Rovero and Raelee Bothwell. All participate in some phase of the debate, dramatic interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, or humorous and serious declamation.

Through Art, Students Learn to Think and Express Themselves Creatively

DONALD WALTERS, BS
Drawing and Painting
Comm. Art, Art Structure

Mr. Walters conducts his classes using the theory that an informal atmosphere is best because the students are more creative when they are relaxed. He teaches three art structure classes and two classes of commercial art. In art structure the course of study includes projects covering many phases of art. After having had a year of art structure a student may then go on to commercial art.

The paint table is one of the most popular places in Mr. Walters room.

The art classes of GFHS do their school many services. They make posters for school plays, help to decorate for school dances, and generally contribute artistic talent and advice when requested. Art supplies are often made available to members of the faculty, students, and school organizations.

Jane Bailey, Judy Knaup, Mr. Walters, Caroll Manuel, Marcia Crackenberger, Carol Wenner watch as Kathy Eschenbacher works on her silk screen project.

Ellen Olson looks over Janice Levine's shoulder to see how she is coming with her picture.

Scenic Designs Provides a Chance for Expression That Has Fruition in School Dramatic or Musical Productions

Here is an interesting corner of one of the art classrooms. The projects displayed are those of the art I and commercial art classes. Mr. Walters chooses the most original work turned in and exhibits it in his room and on the bulletin boards of the third floor hall.

Penne

Well ole girl - loads of luck to a good and trusting friend, be good and don't forget our good ole times!! Loads of luck in the near future in what you may undertake.

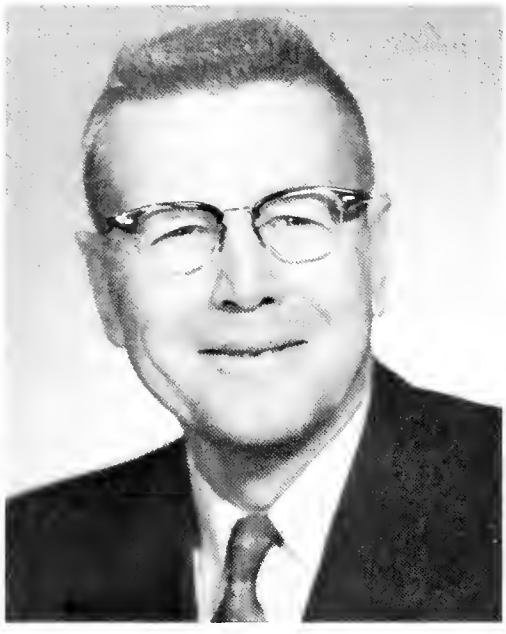
Bessi

Mr. Dillabough teaches classes in applied design, stage craft, and art appreciation. His stage craft classes have the task of furnishing the sets for all school productions. They not only do the art work, but also the actual building of scenery and operation of the lights. Applied design and stage craft are open only to those students who have successfully completed one year of either art I or art appreciation.

Mr. Walters aids three first year art students with a project in design. He gives a theme for each assignment which helps the student think of a topic for his composition. These themes are always broad enough so that the student may give free rein to his imagination.

Center of Visual-Audio Aids for District Is at GFHS



ARTHUR ROSEBERRY, BS, ME
Audio Visuals

The audio-visual department serves the entire school district which includes the thirteen elementary schools, the three junior high schools and the high school. It schedules films for the school year and also arranges equipment for the various schools.

In addition to supplying movies, filmstrips, slides, records, and tape recordings, it provides the necessary projectors, tape recorders, record players, and opaque projectors.

The fast-growing library now includes 600 16mm films which are valued at approximately $4500. The increased demand is brought about by the high caliber of education which the students are receiving.

The information in the films supplies additional material on the subjects taught in the schools.

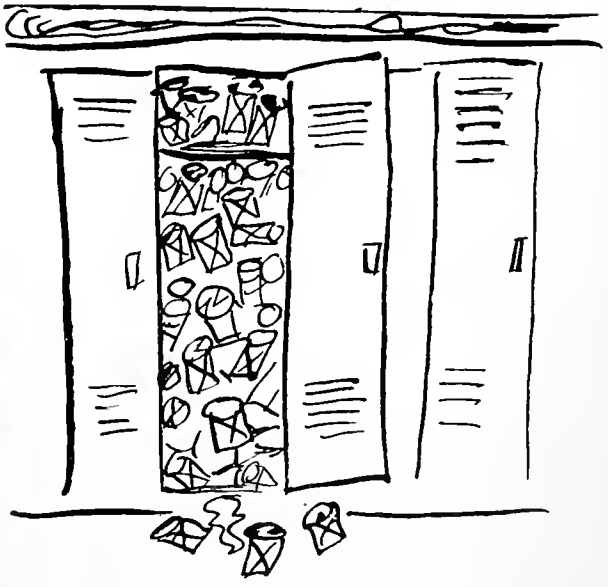
Below is pictured the new film inspection machine. This machine not only checks sprocket hole defects, thickness defects and number of splices, but it counts film footage, cleans and automatically rewinds the film.

Bookeeping Classes Use Newest Methods to Learn Basic Accounting

More students graduate from bookkeeping classes direct to practical office jobs than from most commercial courses. As bookkeeping instructor, Mr. Bofto emphasizes practical application of arithmetic principles. For those who go on in the field of business administration, this provides a foundation for eventual achievement of the coveted C.P.A.

EINO BOFTO, BS, ME
Bookkeeping
Head of School Finance

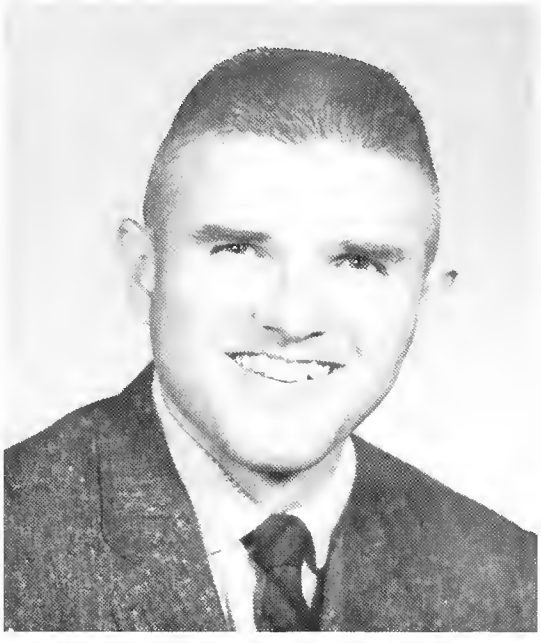
Here Miss Kanalz' bookkeeping class proves that 112, the mechanical drawing room, can be put to another good use.



Mr. Bofto checks to be sure that the students have mastered the machine aspect of bookkeeping.

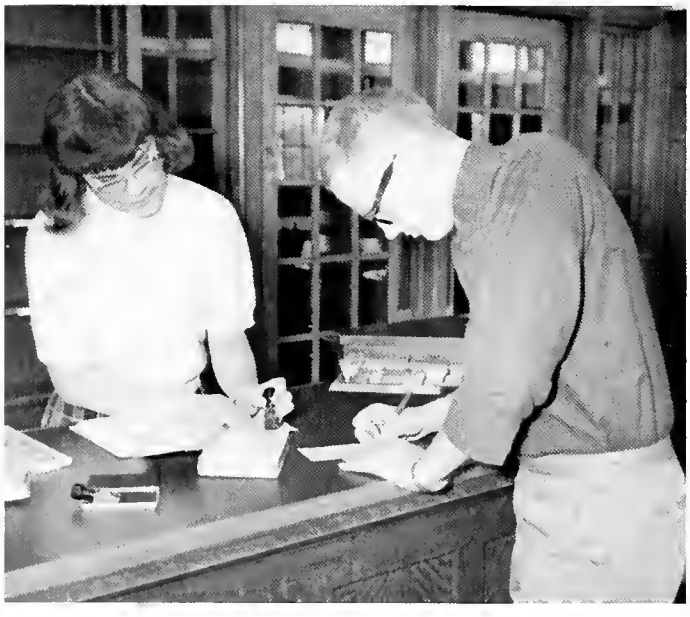
Library Modernization During Past Year Increases Effectiveness of Popular Study Area

Students increase their knowledge in every field when they check out and read the variety of books kept in our library.



JOHN APER, BA, MA
Library

The library is also used for study purposes and keeps reference books for the student's use.



Don Ritt, senior, checks out a book from librarian, Violet Fiebranz. Many of the seniors make good use of these books in their preperation for college.

Library Facilities Are an Asset to All Teachers and Students Doing Research

Quite a change took place in the library before school started last fall. The library was completely rearranged to make room for more students and to accomodate the ever growing number of books. A new office was added for the librarian, Mr. Aper, and his assistant, Mrs. Johansen.

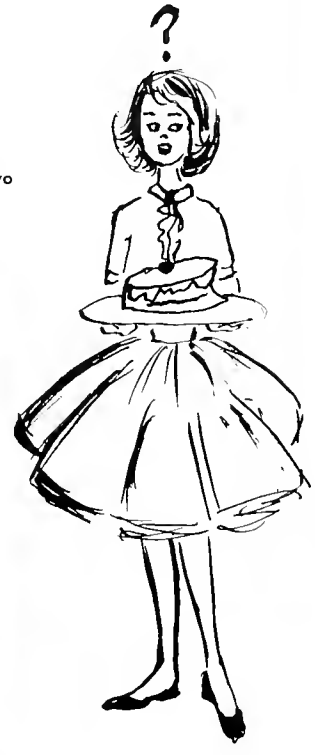
MRS. JOHANSEN
Librarian's assistant

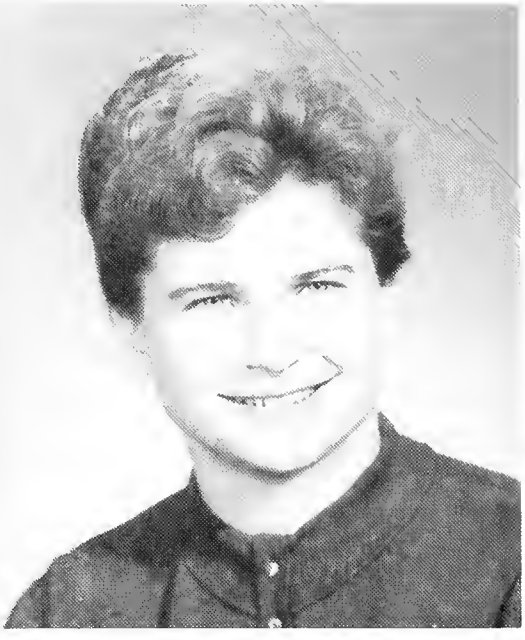
Pennee Thronson spends many hours in her library duty class indexing and sorting books.

Mr. Aper shows a student the correct use of the card catalogue.

Homemaking Classes Emphasize Basic Arts for Young Women

Miss Mann demonstrates the art of biscuit making to two of her homemaking students.





CARRIE MANN, BS
Home Economics

The teaching of cooking and sewing is all a part of Miss Mann's job in preparing young girls for their roles in life as housewives and mothers.

YORK, GERRY—Memory: 1323 Seventh Avenue North, Balls Canyon, Riverdale, and Kelly's car. Pastime: Working on Servoss' cars. Ambition: To get to New York and the night life. Activities: Roundup Floats.

YORK, LINDA KAY—Memory: All four years of high school. Pastime: Listening to the radio, reading, and writing letters. Ambition: To be a secretary. Activities: Pep Club, Stunt Assemblies and Bruin staff in Idaho.

YULE, LORNA LEE—Memory: April 8, 1960, Roundup Days and all the good "ol" troops. Pastime: Bewitchin', botherin', and brewin'. Ambition: To swim in the surf at Waikiki. Activities: GAA, Roundup staff, Pep Club, Jr. Prom, Ski Club, Sr. Ball, Future Teachers, Roundup Floats, and Class Assemblies.

FORMALS

Juniors Celebrate Their Year With Annual Prom

Junior Miss candidates, Stephanie Swanberg Shirley Landa, Marlee Lasker, Sharon McCrea, and Sue Wallis, pose here with the charming young attendants.

Junior Class president, Tom Bernasek, smiles as he presents Junior Miss McCrea with a gift.

Pleased with their selection, the couples watch as Sharon and Tom begin the traditional "queen's dance".

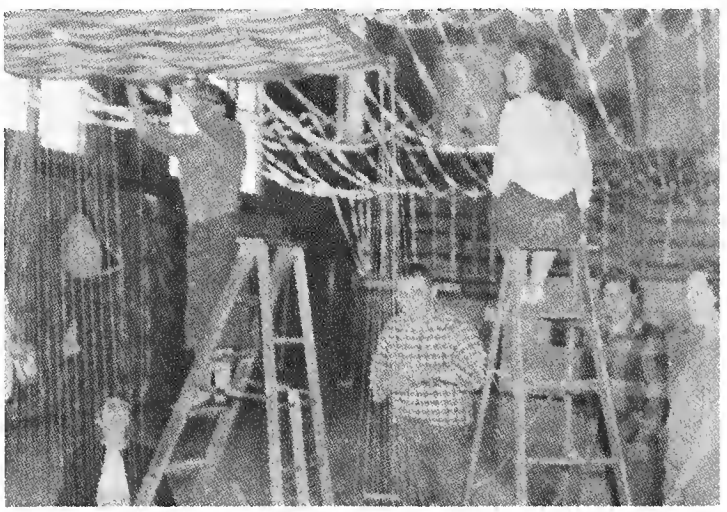
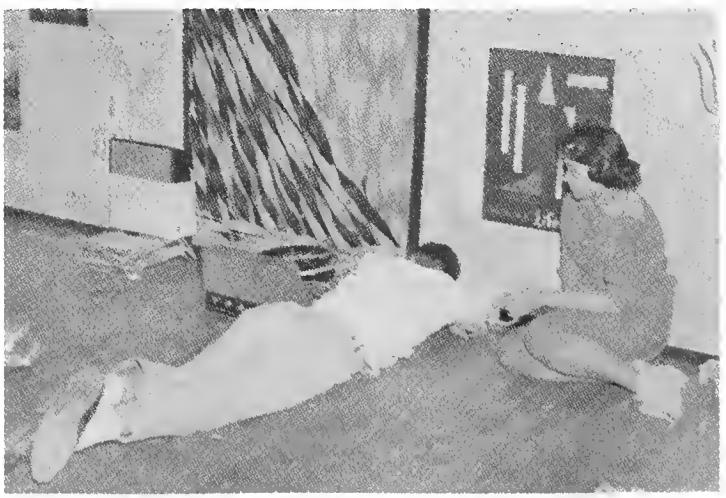
April Abstract
Theme of Senior Ball

"April Abstract" as seen through the eyes of G. F. H. S. artist John Cline.

Committee chairmen Connie Messman and Betty Pfeifle work with salesman Dorothy Wilcox on ticket promotion for the ball.



Decorations progress with the persistent effort of these seniors who prepare for the big night.



J[illegible] and Lana Woods take time out from decorating to re[illegible] the soothing stereo.

Soon-to-be Alumni Have Fun at Last Formal

Couples take time out from dancing at the Senior Ball for refreshment and conversation. Jim Tyler and Joyce Fuller agree that it's a fine party.

Roger Waniata, Chuck Tolefson, and dates seem to be having as much fun as the rest of the G. F. H. S. seniors at this, their last formal dance.

The mood is a gay one, the tempo fast, as everyone swings out to the music of the Wilson band.

As the evening draws to a close, the tired but happy couples slowly gather 'round the punch table for a last, long look over the ballroom, and know that this occasion will not be soon forgotten.

First Formal of Year Is Always Booster Ball

Booster Club President, Gary Polich presented roses to radiant queen Karen while attendants and the pages, DeeJay Robinson and Steve Smith, looked on.

The crowd here awaits anxiously the newly chosen queen of the 1960 Booster Ball as the procession moves toward the throne.

Conversation was gay as the alumnae exchanged greetings and reminisced. Recent graduates traditionally attend this Christmas-time ball.

Queen Karen Hansen Heads 1960 Royalty

Couples danced among the silver bells, sparkling fountains, and twinkling stars which represented the theme of the 1960 Booster Ball, "Silver Bells".

The highlight of the evening was the coronation of the queen, Karen Hansen. Wearing a red velvet and ermine cape, she sat enthroned by a huge silver bell. Booster Club president, Gary Polich, presented the crown, together with a gold compact appropriately engraved.

Emmett Wilson's band brought the memorable evening to a climax with the theme song of the dance and the season.

La Joie de Vivre Sets Tone For French Club Costume Ball

Karen and Dave

John O'Connor and Janice Holden exchanged their Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy wigs for smiling faces and the French Club winners' crowns. Couples attending represented various interpretations of the joy of living with costumes which contributed to a relaxed atmosphere and a good time for all.

Cathode Ray Members Operate On a Short Wave All Their Own

The purpose of the Cathode Ray Radio Club is to stimulate interest in amateur radio by teaching code and theory of radio. The club under the sponsorship of Mr. Parsons, the electric shop teacher, allows the members to get amateur radio licenses. The club members pay their own dues and their own expenses. To all who are interested in the field of radio, the club offers many advantages and rewarding experiences.

Row 1, l. to r: Mr. Parsons, sponsor, Walt Marten, Publicity Director, Ron Brackett, Vice-President, Ken Anderson, President, Todd Hangen, Secretary-Treasurer, Bill Wallace, Henry Ellsworth. The purpose of the Future Teachers Club is to give students the opportunity to explore the field of teaching as a career and understand its different aspects.

The club is divided into two groups, those who wish to be elementary teachers, and those who wish to be secondary teachers. Miss Nelson is their sponsor.

Students who have attended school abroad share international experiences in the Cosmopolitan Club. The club is sponsored by Miss Seltz, and its members are well-versed on existing situations in foreign countries.

Booster Club Keeps School Spirit Alive Through Assistance When Asked

Booster Club carries with it the honor that goes with selected membership. Every member knows well that behind the glamour of the Booster Ball lie hours and hours of selling at games and of pushing concessions along with team spirit.

Supporting athletics and promoting school spirit are the main goals of the Booster Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Mollander and Mrs. Lewis. The Booster Ball is the first formal of the year. Officers for this year are Gary Polich, president; Dick Hurd, vice-president; Barb Oulds, secretary; and Artha Flemming, treasurer.

Would Be Dramatists Work Under New Coach to Produce 3 Big Shows

Jeff Lagge in a scene from Harvey. Jeff had the male lead and did a superb job.

The dual purpose of Thespians is to advance interest in dramatics and to increase the excellence of drama in high school. Agora Topics Are Often Controversial, Always Interesting

Since its membership is limited to thirty, the competition is not easy for admission to Agora Club. The new members soon find, however, that it has been well worth their efforts, as they participate in the discussions and social activities. These begin with the annual Initiation pictured here, at which the initiates shake with fear and the veterans with laughter. Regular discussions are held, at which members tackle some of the major problems of today.

ACTIVITIES

Two Major Dramatic Achievements Highlight Year

A creditable performance was turned in by the large cast and crews of the all-school production of INHERIT THE WIND. Under the direction of Mr. Lund, the struggle between the advocates of fundamentalism and followers of Darwin's theories, represented by William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow in the famous Scopes "monkey trial," was recreated.

Dave McNicol, right, portrayed the defense attorney opposing Don Torgenrud in the courtroom action scenes of the all-school dramatic presentation.

One hundred and seventy-seven people presented THE KING AND I, the biggest production ever attempted by the music department. With Mr. Ken Smith, over-all director for the show, and Miss Kathleen Cosgriff, dramatics director, there were 13 additional faculty advisors helping with the show. Doug Evans was the student director. Audiences particularly enjoyed the authenticity, color, and realistic portrayal of the musical.

Uncle Tom's Cabin is presented in an interesting manner by the Siamese ballet.

Th King, Joe Hayes, is shown presenting his wives to the British Embassy.

Cast members wait their turn during the dress rehearsal. The costumes were rented especially for the production.

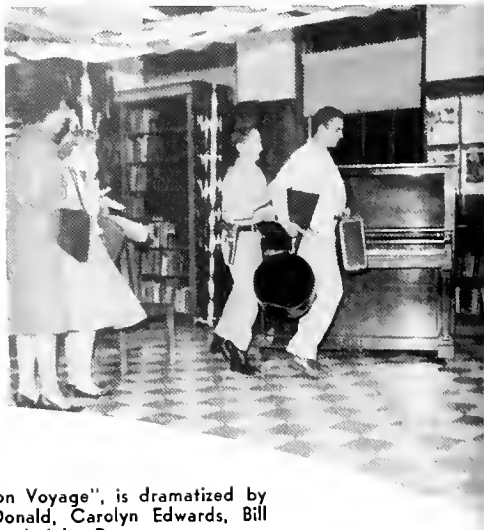
French Club Initiates

It was a long way from the French language room to the library where the initiates got their first taste of the initiation. The first taste, incidentally, was a delightful mixture of raw egg whites carefully dribbled on nervous chins.

Monta Smith, Janet Ogle, Sharon Nelson, and Linda Yeoman seem to enjoy themselves as they sing "Chevaliers de la Table Ronde."

La vin rose? Could be just plain water the Linda Yeoman pours from the olde Francais barrel.

Wearing Logger's boots and carrying an axe, Ron Matz plays and sings the Canadian national song in French.



A skit, "Bon Voyage", is dramatized by Terry McDonald, Carolyn Edwards, Bill Whitsett, and John Duncan.

The French Club held its annual initiation November 8, in the school library where 28 junior and senior second year French students were elected into the club.

This year the prospective members were asked to prepare original skits in French. Miss Toof, French instructor, and club co-sponsor with Miss Harpel, French instructor, was mistress-of-ceremonies for the program.

The new members included: Janet Ogle, Monta Smith, Linda Yeoman, Sharon Nelson, Jo Ann Coor, Judy Gilson, Terry McDonald, Carolyn Edwards, Susan Stevens, John Duncan, Bill Whitsette, Diane Morris, Karen Boetcher, Joanne DeShazer, Gayle Sowers, Arthelle Woods, Vicki Wolfe, Ron Matz, Janet Haxton, Bonnie Heaton, Helen Cook, Bob Rustad, Nancy Wulf, Phyllis Hess, Sheryl Wright, and Linda Parsons.

Following the meeting, where French had been spoken during the entire evening, crepe suzettes and 7-Up were served in the home economics kitchen.

Joanne Coor and Judi Gilson sing "Love and Marriage" in French.

Booster Club Initiates Humble Themselves Before Superiors

Jennifer Wilder, Karen Grasseschi and Karen Leckband sing the famous "Alvin and the Chipmunks" song for their initiation stunt.

Betty Jacobson seems a little dizzy while running the bat relay.

When the whistle blows, all initiates must bow to the floor and say, "Hail Boosters" or vice president, Dick Hurd will remind them with the paddle.

Molly McCollum is very much surprised when she finds that Dan Fraser hasn't lifted her off the ground after all.

Fifteen new members were initiated into the Booster Club September 27, in the DeMolay Memorial Building.

Each initiate was required to present a skit, for which Molly McCollum, who came as Mr. Magoo, won the best act award. The best costume prize was awarded to Dan Conner, alias Khrushchev, wearing a most authentic garb.

Several trick games were pulled on the initiates which was followed by the presentation of the Booster pins to the new members by Gary Polich, president. Old members as well as new members enjoyed themselves as refreshments were served.

Agora Initiates Receive Certificates

After taking the Agoran oath and receiving their certificates of membership, the 23 new initiates take a rest from the hectic night.

Bill Buckingham dressed as Brigitte Bardot made quite a hit at the initiation.

Charlotte Holmquist and Dave McNichol coasted in in their Card-board car and gave their interpretation of Glacier Park Park.

Lettermen Carry on Traditions by Initiation

"I know I am unworthy . . ."

Terry Wardinsky wallops Tom Bernasek for not reciting the "mighty, heroic, and handsome" letterman's poem.

A great big Brownie smile!

Roger Shanahan and Dave Leland pirouette "gracefully" in a Russian ballet.

"I love you," says Dick Hurd to his mop.

Larry Petty demonstrates the art of diaper changing. With walnuts?

Charming Larry Empereur sings "Your Cheating Heart".

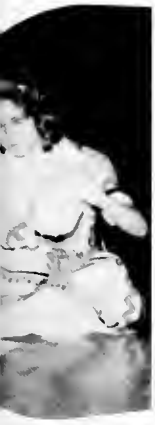
Bill Koons is most becoming in his skin-tight bathing suit.

On November 23, twenty-one prospective lettermen bowed before the mighty lettermen and pled for admittance.

To gain admittance, each initiate was required to dress in a humorous costume and to perform a skit, which usually ended with a swat of the paddle.

After the skits and laughs, members and their dates were served donuts and cider. A dance followed the refreshments.

GAA Initiation in Gym Finds Girls in Wide Variety of Costumes



For their initiation the new members of the GAA dressed in costumes which illustrated the poems that each was required to write. The evening's festivities began when each initiate recited her poem as an old member spanked her with a ping-pong paddle.

Later in the evening the girls ran relays and played games. Many had shaving cream on their faces or clothes as a result of a game in which the initiates had to use razor blades to remove shaving cream from balloons.

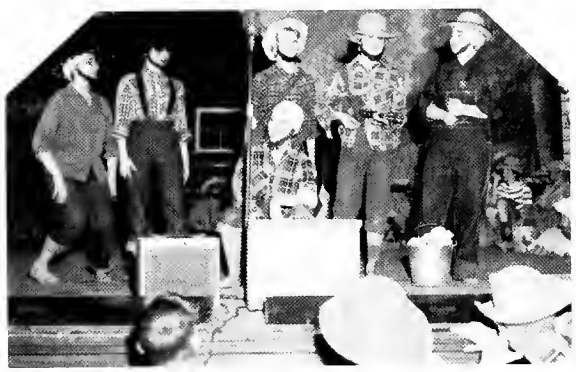
Usherettes Frolic at Initiation in Private Home

The antics of club sponsor, Mr. Sabo, added to a general air of merriment as members of this service organization initiated new recruits to the ranks. Old usherettes were entertained throughout the evening by new members who were ushered about to do the bidding of their predecessors. Kay Dunkerly, Doris and Della Sharette join the others in the fun.

Assembly, Parade of Floats, Games, Barbecue and Dance Fill Day

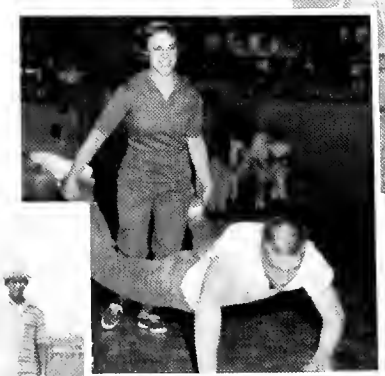
The float at the right, BIG MEDICINE, won the top award in the 1960 ROUNDUP DAY parade. The big event was marred by strong winds that reached 40 or more miles per hour and at one time threatened to cancel the event.

Many of the floats were practically stripped of paper by the end of the downtown parade. Some of the floats were torn by the wind while at the high school. Even if the wind was strong it failed to dampen the spirits of the students or crowd.



The assembly, left, began the day long event. An hour and a half in length, it was well received.

A damsel's fate hangs on the draw! Git going pardner The West is raw.



Good pie, eh?

Indoor or outdoor, the games were popular. Pie eating contests were a hit, and the wheelbarrow races brought thrills and chills.

Roundup Day Tradition Carried on in Grand Style by All Classes

ROUNDUP DAY, May 13, was filled with fun and levity. As usual, an assembly opened the event filled day. Barbara Smith was mistress-of-ceremonies. Dressed as a hillbilly, she introduced a wide variety of acts on a rural theme.

Howard Heaton, dressed as a middle aged spinster, was master-of-ceremonies for the second portion of the show. The entire production was under the direction of Cathy Criley, a senior. Mr. Engel, shop instructor, was sponsor.

Tug-of-war found underclassmen pitted against upperclassmen. On the stage it didn't matter what the class was as long as the act was good.

Howard Heaton, dressed as a middle aged spinster, caused howls of laughter as he swept across the stage following an act.

Acts galore
and then some more

A song off key
Who cares? Not we!

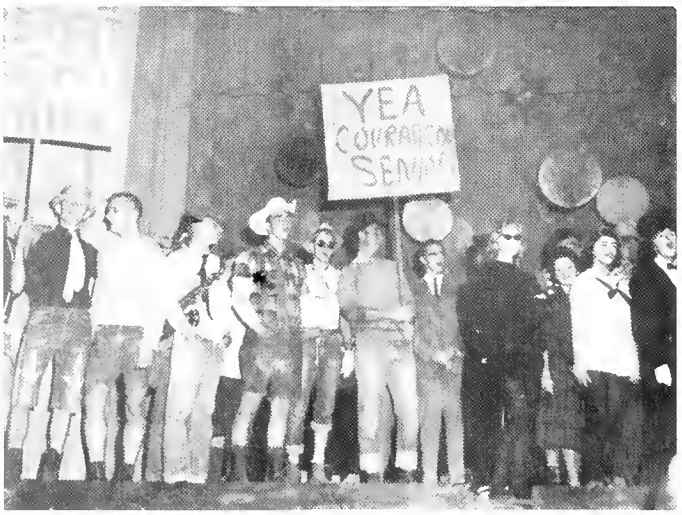
Traditionally, students sit along the back once their act is finished. It's great to be 'first' for then one can relax and enjoy the fun.

Seniors Present Annual Assembly

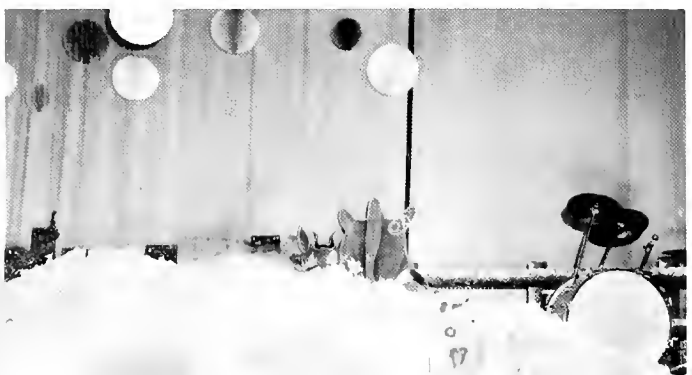
City life and country life were portrayed in the Senior Class Assembly, "Town and Country." Barbara Smith, dressed in hillbilly attire acted as mistress of ceremonies while Gary Polich, dressed as a city slicker, was master of ceremonies. Meribeth McKain, student director, worked with the various committees and Senior Class sponsors organizing the assembly.

The cast presented Senior Class sponsors, Miss Peck and Mr. Stende, with gifts in appreciation for their help and advice in putting on the assembly. Miss Peck received a corsage of shattered pink carnations and Mr. Stende was given a boutonniere.

Carol Evanko brought the assembly to a fitting close by singing "I'll Be Seeing You."

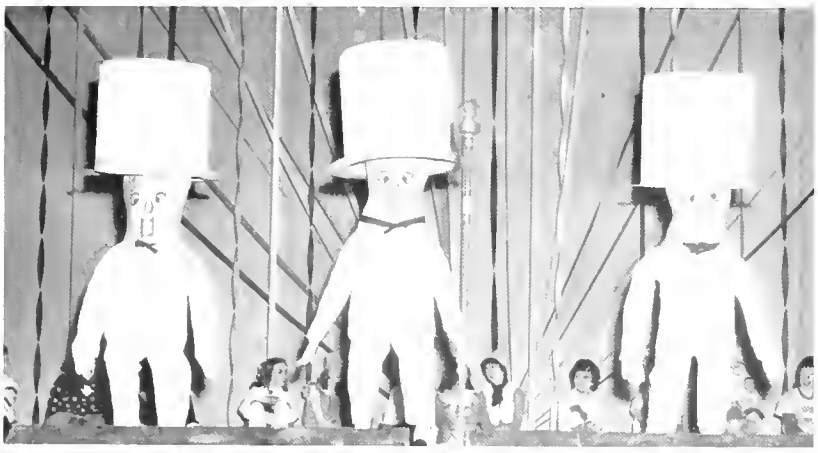


Above, the cast gathers on the stage to sing their finale, ending their last class assembly et GFHS. Below, the first performers relax, prepared to enjoy the remainder of the program.



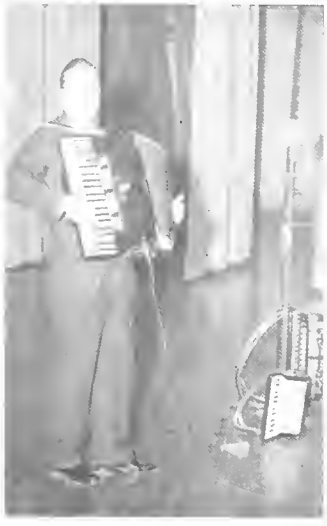
Doug Evans and Gordy Denton are pictured singing an original composition entitled "Where Is Zekey."

Assembly Varieties Add to Relaxation and Knowledge

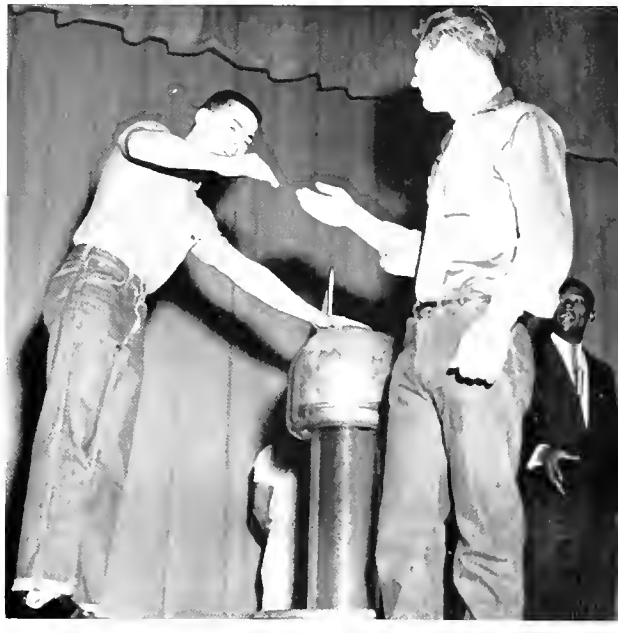


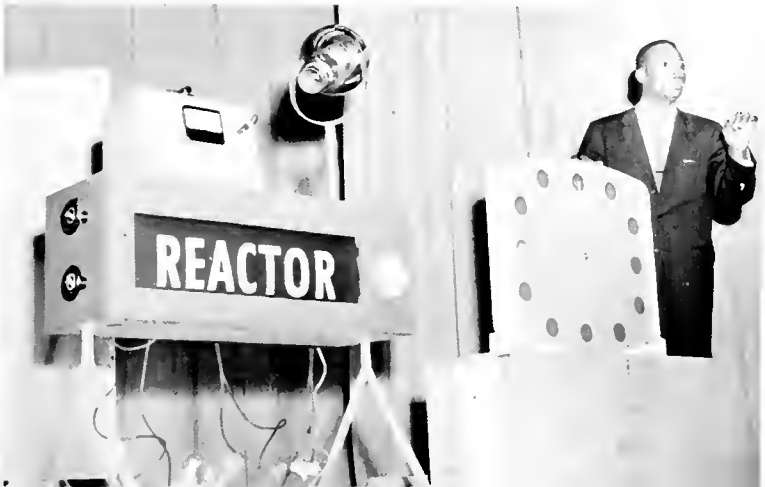
The Junior assembly provided a large number of acts early in 1961. The three clowns—or monsters—or what have you—kept the audience guessing as to which way they'd wiggle next.

Pep assemblies found all of GFHS' 1825 students crammed into the gym. Seated front are several cheerleaders waiting for introductions for players to end.



National School Assemblies and visiting lecturers provided additional entertainment and knowledge during the year. Left, an accordionist entertains for over an hour. Right, several students assist a guest lecturer from the Atomic Energy Commission in a demonstration of electrical energy. This assembly was one of the more popular ones. Sponsored by the Los Alamos project, the scientist, a Negro, kept his audience fascinated as he explained the working of the atom.





Left, another view of the science demonstration and the simple mechanical materials used to explain one of the most complicated scientific projects.

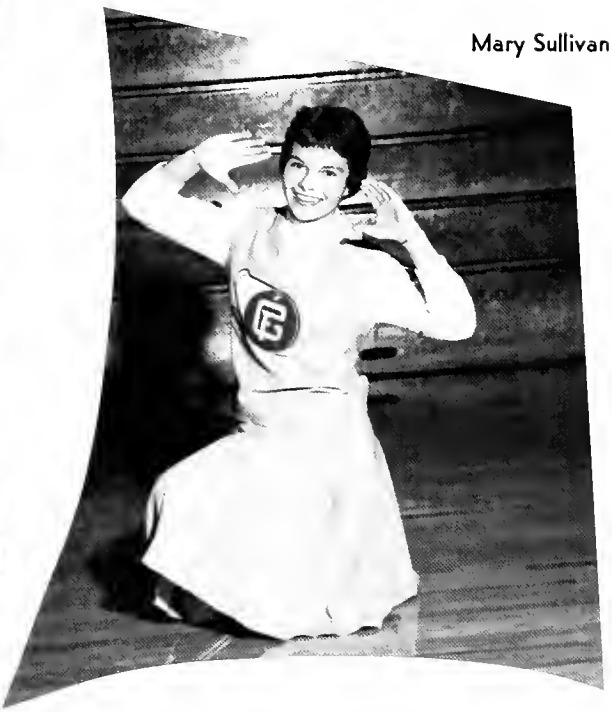
Add Zest Athletic Events



Mary Sullivan

The Student Council of GFHS selected Karen Hansen as its candidate for queen of the Class AA Tournament. Students contributed money toward her election, with every penny donated counting as one vote. Charities and other worthy organizations received the funds collected.

Shirley Bresee

Mr. Dahmer and Mrs. Lewis, sponsors of the cheer squad, worked with Mr. Hovland and Miss Peck, sponsors of the Pep Club, in co-ordinating the activities of the two groups and improving school spirit. The cheerleaders were members of the Pep Club Board of Directors and taught cheers to the club, thus providing support of our athletic teams at their events.

Eight varsity cheerleaders led the Bison rooters this year. The cheerleaders elected both Karen Hansen and Shirley Bresee as co-cheer queens because of a change in the procedure of choosing cheerleaders. Shirley and Karen have been on the cheer squad since their freshmen year, while Sharon, Linda, Mary, Maryann, Sandy, and Patti were chosen in January of 1960.

INIWA, GFHS paper, is the Indian name for Bison. A joint journalism-interested student project, it is published 25-30 times a year.

INIWA has rated high state-wide and nationally, and its editors usually achieve wide recognition. The school presently holds the Sigma Chi editorial award, and the Sigma Chi sports award. This is the second year in a row for the former. The 1959-60 editor received the Theta Sigma Phi award at Montana State University as the outstanding Journalist in Montana in schools over 250. Nationally, the paper has placed in high honor ratings at the NSPA judging, and over all compares equally with the largest school papers in the United States. Mr. Spahr, who also advises all publiccations and teaches journalism, is advisor.

Selected from 25 semi-finalists, the six juniors pictured above were the candidates for AFS study abroad during the coming year. To qualify for consideration in the AFS program, students must be 16 years old, juniors, and have completed two years of foreign language by the time the grant is awarded. These students must compete with 700 U. S. high schools, the stiffest kind of competition.

These three students are among the 10,00 high scoring students in the National Merit exams. They attained finalist status by their distinguished performance upon two tests and endorsement of the high school. All three have been awarded Certificates of Merit and the winners will receive scholarships from the resources of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and sponsors.

The Bisonettes purchased attractive new costumes this year. These costumes, which replace their red ones, are light blue and match the basketball and football uniforms. The costume consists of three pieces: a top, a detachable skirt, and briefs of the same material.

The Delphian Choir is named for Delphi, the first site of early Greek music festivals. It is made up of 35 regular members and 10 alternate members chosen by audition from the Advanced Chorus. Regular rehearsals are held on Monday nights.

The group, formed 4 years ago, performs at the Christmas Concert, T.V. and Radio broadcasts, civic groups, District Festival, The Annual Musical, and invitational trips in and out of state.

Madrigal Singers

The Madrigal style of singing originated in Italy during the 13th century, then developed through the English 16th century school to the present day madrigal style. It is characterized by its use of voice imitation, fa-la refrains, non-accompanied style and echo passages. This group is one of the most active organizations in the school, with a maximum of 50 performances during the year.

The members represent the top 16 voices in the choral dept. at G.F.H.S. Membership comes through audition based upon musicianship, voice characteristics, and blending quality needed for group balance. The group rehearses out side of school.

The excellent ratings received by the Madrigal Singers the past 3 years at District and State Music Festivals indicate the quality with which the group performs.

Boys' Quartette

Aaron McLaughlin, Scott Stevens, Jim Stanard, Terry Ryan.

The Valiants, above, Boy's Quartet, started singing together at the beginning of the year. Their repertoire includes all types of music—spirituals, barber shop, popular, and novelty. Throughout the year they have performed for downtown clubs, conventions, and school assemblies within the city.

Scott, Terry, and Aaron plan on college following graduation, while Jim plans to continue music next year as a senior. The boys have hopes that they will be able to get together in song, even though their interests may keep them widely scattered.

Smaller Choral Group Membership

The purpose of Advanced Chorus is to offer the best possible medium of vocal music to a maximum number of singers. The 1961 chorus has a membership of 127 students who meet regularly during the fourth period to learn music of all types. Membership is by audition only.

The String Ensemble is one of the most active groups in the music department. It performs during the year for large and small civic, club, and school meetings.

Membership is selected by audition for Mr. Welshon and only the most capable players are selected.

The music performed by this group has a wide range from Bach and Beethoven to music of Broadway.

The Symphony Orchestra is composed of a large string section with solo representation in brass, woodwind and percussion. The orchestra makes numerous appearances at Civic organizations and at several public schools. In addition, the symphony played for the Montana Educators Association convention, the All City Orchestra Festival, a

BUTTE CENTRAL:

Team effort and a strong defense combined to give Great Falls victory over the visiting Butte Central Maroons. Only touchdown of the game came in the closing minutes of the first quarter as the result of a blocked punt. Though the whole team was responsible for holding on to that lead and keeping Butte Central at bay, their efforts were sparked by the power running of Frank Duke and the defensive work of Larry Baldwin. Outcome: Bisons 7—Maroons 0.

KALISPELL:

A 30-yard pass and two carries by halfback Dale Jackson gave the Thundering Herd its lone tally in a hard-fought contest at Flathead. The Braves came back in the second quarter to tie the score at halftime, and went on to win 14-7.

ANACONDA:

The Bisons tasted defeat for the first time at the hands of the Anaconda eleven in a penalty ridden contest. Coach Carlson lauded the work of defensive linemen Baldwin, Voytoski, and Albrecht in holding the Copperheads to a 9-0 score.

HELENA:

Co-captain Larry Petty showed the form which was to earn him the M.V.P. award as he led the Bisons to an early season victory over Helena on the Bengals' home field. Great Falls established a first quarter lead on his efforts combined with carries by Jackson and a pass from Casey. Jackson scored in the second period and Petty added two more while Helena picked up a pair. Final score: 26-13, the Bisons.

BILLINGS:

The combined efforts of the Bison band and a trainload of fans proved unable to compensate for early-game team fumbleitis as the Broncs ran wild on their own field. The Billings team built up a 13 point lead before Petty connected with Jackson on the touchdown pass and converted. Each team had two touchdowns in the third quarter and the Broncs added another in the final frame. Final score: 32-21 in favor of the host team. Bison fullback Bob Murray, who received a concussion making a 3rd quarter tackle, was lost to the team for the remainder of the season.

MISSOULA:

The mighty Bisons pulled off the season's biggest upset in AA ball, tumbling previously undefeated Missoula, 13-6. The Great Falls boys were out to win. Early in the second period of play Larry Petty went over from the three to climax a Bison drive from their own 13, and booted the PAT. Missoula's only score came on a fumbled pass interception in the same quarter. Behind the quarterbacking of Terry Casey, Petty, Duke and Jackson set it up for another T-D. A 21 yard Casey to Jackson pitch-out accounted for the score. A great defensive effort by the Bisons marked the third and final quarters, repeatedly stopping Missoula attempts to move the ball.

BOZEMAN:

Diminutive quarterback Sylvis engineered the Bozeman Hawks to a 7-0 win over Great Falls in Memorial Stadium. He scored the only touchdown in the game midway in the second quarter. The Bisons pushed to the Bozeman 25 with two minutes remaining, but were unable to score in five plays. The Bison coaching staff noted the defensive efforts of Alan Voytoski and Terry Albrecht which later earned them All-State recognition.

BUTTE PUBLIC:

The home standing Bisons made the Butte Public Bulldogs earn their right to the State AA Championship. The Bulldogs scored first on a 45 yard run, but failed to convert. With a minute and a half remaining in the half, Great Falls made it 7-6 on a pass from Schlenske to Jackson and another, in conversion, Casey to McIntosh. Victory hopes were high but short-lived as the visitors capitalized on a Bison fumble which enabled them to score again. Larry Petty was outstanding in the Bison offense as he smashed time after time through the Butte line.

BUTTE CENTRAL, DEC. 17

Butte Central Maroons iced the game with a couple of charity tosses in the final seconds of their game at Great Falls. Silberman's 25 led all scorers in the heated contest which saw the lead change hands for the last time midway in the third stanza. Grady made 11 for the Bisons.

ANACONDA, JAN. 20

In the game at Anaconda the Bisons relinquished the lead but once, in the final three seconds of the game. The winning score followed the interception of a bad Bison pass, giving the Copperheads the 44-42 edge. Big Wayne Estes, outplayed by the hustling Herd, scored 8, his season low.

KALISPELL, JAN. 14

Team effort accounted for the Bisons second conference win at Kalispell in a game ragged throughout with poor floor play. The work of Silberman and Willet in clearing the boards insured victory. Schlenske tallied 20, Silberman 17, and Jensen 16, in downing the Braves 66-45.

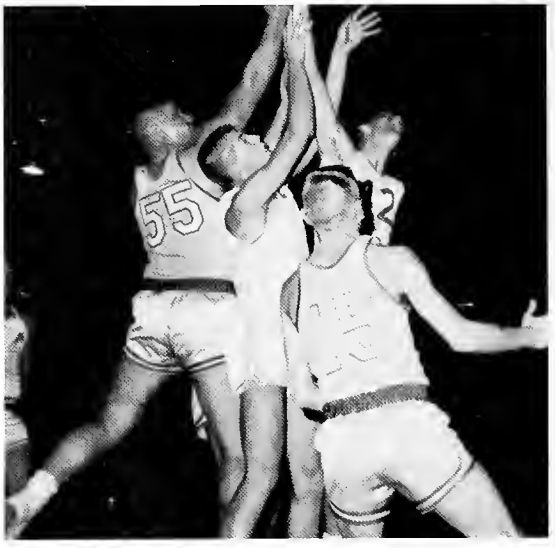
LIVINGSTON, FEB. 18

Playing without the services of their injured center Ricci, the Rangers nevertheless held off the visiting Bison and went on to a six point victory. Trailing throughout Great Falls drew to within two points in the final minutes, but Livingston relied on a stall and several freethrows to win 65-59. Walt Jensen took game honors with 18 points. Silberman scored 10.

Bisons Versus Bozeman, Anaconda, Missoula

BOZEMAN, FEB. 10

After a close and rugged first half in their game against Bozeman here, the Bisons broke loose in the third quarter and went on to trim the Hawks 63-44. Jensen's hook shots coupled with the hot shooting of Schlenske and Chamberlain spelled victory for Great Falls.



ANACONDA, JAN. 7

The league-leading Copperheads met their match in the host Bison team, but managed to emerge on the top side of a 59-58 score. Playing their best game on the home floor in more than two years, the Bisons demonstrated fine scoring ability and gave the local fans something to scream about. Silberman's jump shot served him well as he rang up 21 points against the defense of Estes and crew.

LIVINGSTON TOURNEY

1st game:

The opening game of the pre-season Livingston Invitational saw the Bisons trample the Bozeman Hawks 61-46. With a twenty point lead at halftime, Coach Dodds was able to use all reserve players. Dick Silberman led his teammates in scoring and rebounding.

2nd game:

In spite of spirited teamwork and outstanding performance by Jensen, Schlenske, and Silberman, Great Falls met defeat at the hands of the Missoula Spartans in their second game. The lead changed hands repeatedly throughout a ragged second half. The 70-67 defeat came only after the Spartans had overcome a faulty scoreboard and tie scores at the end to two overtime periods which sent the game into a sudden death playoff which gave Missoula the tournament championship.

Bisons Versus Butte, Butte Central, Billings

BUTTE, DEC. 10

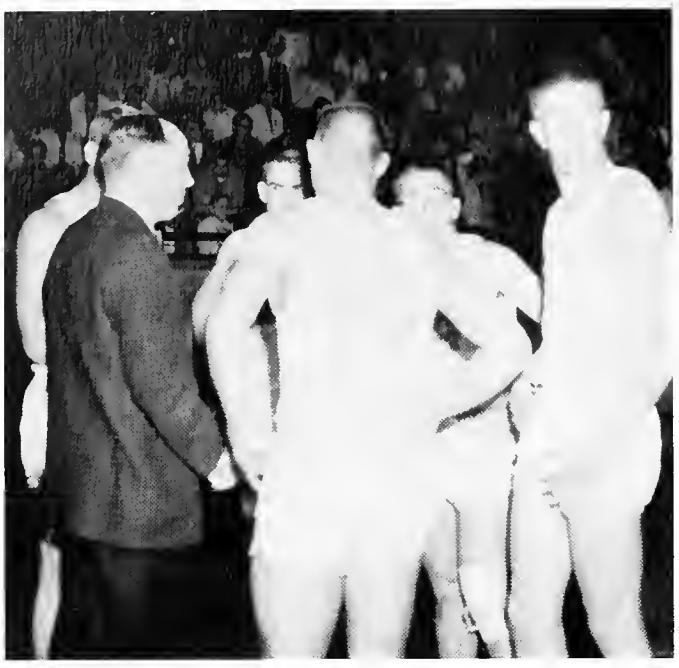
Despite the fine rebounding and close shot deception of center Walt Jensen, and Dick Silberman's 19 point effort, the Bisons were defeated in a close one by the visiting Butte Bulldogs. A halftime lead again failed to hold up. The defensive maneuvers of Chamberlain and teammates were insufficient to hold the Butte team, which came out on top 47-43.

BUTTE CENTRAL, FEB. 26

All-State forward Silberman showed the way as Great Falls salvaged its final conference game on the home floor 54-53 over Butte Central Maroons. It was anybody's game until the final whistle. Feeling the loss of sidelined rebounder Willet, the Bisons depended upon Silberman with 20 for the win.

BILLINGS, FEB. 3

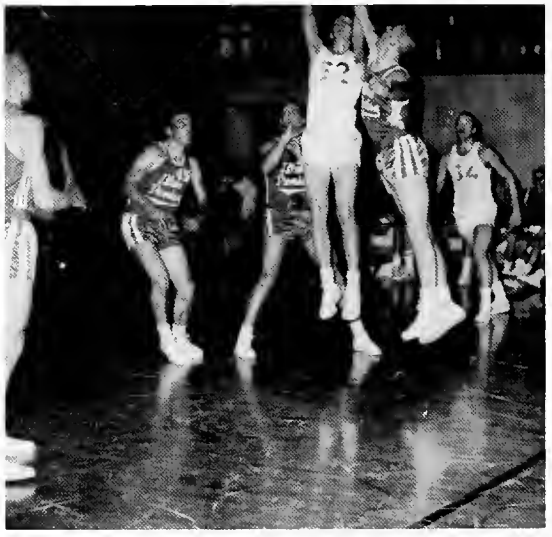
Scoring 8 of his team's last points and five straight freethrows in the final minutes of play, Dick Silberman sparked the Bisons to a 56-54 upset over second-place Billings. Willet pulled in 14 rebounds and Silberman hit for 18 to star. The host Billings Broncs led until the final period of play but after that were never ahead.



Bisons Versus Helena, Billings

HELENA, JAN. 28

The home-standing Bengals managed to stay with the Bisons for three quarters of inspired ball. Tired from its encounter pulled ahead in the fourth quarter and coasted to 67-50 victory.



BILLINGS, JAN. 21

Billings beat the Bisons at their own game of hustling on the Great Falls hardwood. The five starting Broncs played a solid game and held off its desperate opponent to the contest end. The final score favored the Broncs 54-51.

HELENA, FEB. 11

Hapless Helena Bengals fell victim to the Bison's highest season scoring splurge. Silberman again led his teammates in scoring with 22 behind the floor work of Schlenske with 9 and steals by Chamberlain. Senior Bob Lund added 12 to give Great Falls a final 69-57 margin.

Bisons Versus Butte, Livingston, Kalispell, Missoula

BUTTE, DEC. 16

The Butte Bulldogs made it two in a row over Great Falls with their 54-44 win in the mining city. Butte established an early 5 point lead and held on, finally stretching it to ten in the final period. Bison forward Ken Grady made a fine showing, contributing 18 points to a losing cause.

LIVINGSTON, DEC. 9

The Park County Rangers dealt the local hoopsters their first conference loss on the home floor 50-45. Establishing a five point halftime edge, the Bisons led to midway in the fourth quarter when the staying power of Livingston began to tell. Forwards Willet and Silberman led the scoring.

KALISPELL, JAN. 6

Great Falls broke its longest losing streak in recent history when it met Kalispell at home. Even scoring among Schlenske, Jensen, and Willet, and Chamberlain's outstanding defense combined to produce the 63-45 score.

MISSOULA, FEB. 25

Fast-starting Missoula had its pace considerably slowed and its Big John O'Blizzalo cut down to size in a late season encounter on the Bison's home court. Little Junior Hoyt Demers made up the difference with ball handling and a terrific outside shot which earned him a place on the All-State starting five. With five seconds remaining the Great Falls chance to tie the game was lost as Grady's shot fell short. Silberman and Jensen shared scoring honors in the 62-60 contest.

Varsity wrestlers made it 8 in a row over their opponents to conclude a successful season, after dropping a pair in early meets at Kalispell and Missoula. High mark of the unblemished home match record was a 23-19 loss dealt Missoula, the Spartan matmen's first in 5 years. Great Falls found its stride against the Broncs of Billings High and continued its winning way to even the score with Kalispell here.

Leading his teammates to first place at the regular season's end, Bob McIntyre established an impressive 11-0, 1 draw record, was named Bison's most valuable and high point man of the wrestling squad. His efforts were supported by those of Dave Anderson and Dan Remington, each 11-1, Dick Zadick, 10-2, Jack Habel, 9-2, and Ron LaValley, 8-3.

Coach Sabo expressed satisfaction with the junior varsity team which ended a good season, 10 and 2. Dave Leland, Ken Denning and Fred Schafer led the crew as it went down only two times, at the hands of Malta's Mustangs and the Missoula J-Vs.

Team briefings are varied to include a demonstration by coaches Sabo, Carlson, and Henrikson.

Under the sponsorship of the Great Falls Recreation Board and the Supervision of Mr. R. J. Scovil the high school Bowling teams had a busy season of league competition. Of the 32 teams which met regularly at Skyway Bowl, 14 made up the boys league. Members bowled each Monday. In the girls competition the eight-team A league and the ten team B-league bowled on Tuesdays. Boys League Champions were Scrappy Four with second place going to the Washouts.

TEEN TIME

This year TEEN TIME completed its eighth consecutive year on radio, providing Great Falls with "the latest high school news and chatter" enough to fill some 2000 typewritten pages.

Those pictured on these pages have all worked on TEEN TIME staff for two or more years. So have others. This year more than 65 students aided in one or more shows.

Staff membership is open to any high school student in Great Falls. All that is required is that the boy or girl show up at one or more of the news sessions, held each Wednesday at 8 P.M. in the Petite Shoppe. Newscasters heard on radio are selected from the reporting staff. It provides exceptional opportunity for underclassmen in particular (though most staff members this year were Seniors) to gain experience in reporting radio techniques. And it's fun!

TEEN TIME is written and produced by the Petite Shoppe, originator of the show. This year it was heard on KARRadio.

Index

The yearbook staff has used care in compiling this index of faculty, administration, and students. If there are errors or omissions they are unfortunate and unintentional. If a name is missing, or if by some mischance it is misspelled, remember that we too, like you, are simply human. "To err is human, to forgive is divine," said Shakespeare.

Penny, Well, finally we did it. Despite the hardships we made it through. I'm glad we got together and I hope we can make it to get together and make some more memories. Good luck to you in the future. Bart

Pennee
To a real sweet girl in the senior gang. The one I got to know the least but seems the best. It was a real blast to be a real blast. Have fun this summer.

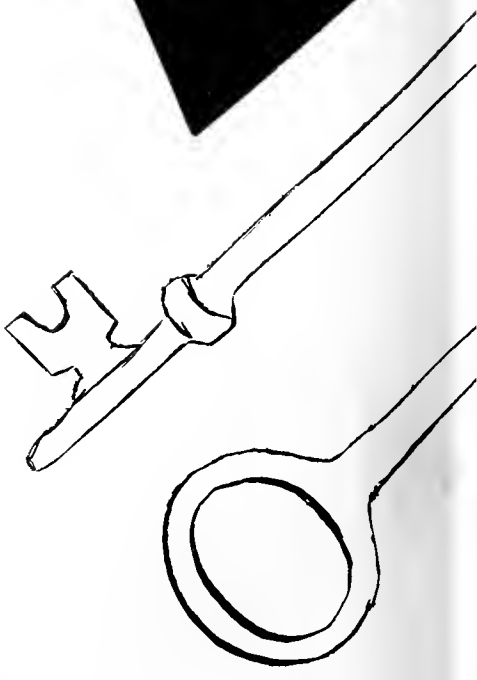
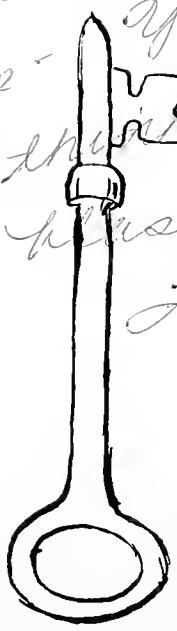
Toftoy

Penny,
I sure do hate to see you go this summer. We've really had some good times together. Good luck in everything you do.
Sam



Penny,
Lots of luck to you in the future. You really are a nut. I think we'll have a blast at M.S.C.
Love ya
Nada



Ben
Well kid we finally made it. Best wishes to a real swell kid.
Always
